MONEY AND CHARACTER

We have already commented on a series of articles currently appearing in the Saturday Evening Post entitled: "The Shame Of America."

The articles were written by Richard Clendenin and Herbert W. Beaser, two men who were employed by a Senate sub-committee to prepare a report on juvenile delinquency.

It seems the two writers sold the series of five articles to the Post to appear prior to the filing of the report in Congress scheduled for January 31st, and some members of the committee are said to be peeved about it.

We expressed the opinion when the first article appeared that the investigation of juvenile delinquency was a waste of time, and the publication of the articles a waste of space and money.

We should let it go at that, but our opinion is so manifestly verified by the opening sentence of the fourth article which appeared last week that we want to quote it as follows:—

"The United States today is spending more millions of dollars on more agencies to prevent juvenile delinquency than was ever spent before in the history of the world, yet our teen-age crime rate has gone up 45 percent in the last five years."

Stated a different way the writers could have said, "all the millions of dollars produced will not take the place of character. And there is no way to teach children character except for adults to do it."

It seems in recent years we have relied upon money to produce everything. If we have the money we can buy transportation, gain a place in society, win wars against vicious enemies, and live in luxury.

We can even hire baby-sitters for our children, have the best tutors to teach them and provide them with every educational and cultural advantage. But we can't instill into them unless we do it ourselves.

We can't blame schools for juvenile delinquency. We are told schools are better than they ever were. We can't blame Sunday School teachers. We believe they are as sincere, as patient, and as efficient as teachers of any generation.

The most articles have blamed practically everything children come in contact with for juvenile delinquency—comic books, narcotics, mistakes in sex, instruction, crime plays on radio and television and in the movies, in fact practically everything except the one thing to blame—failure of parents to teach character to their children.

The reason we refuse to put our finger on the juvenile delinquency problem is because some modern parents want to do practically everything EXCEPT what it takes to raise children of character.

Millions of women are working eight hours a day with children from one to ten years of age at home. It is an absolute necessity for many mothers to work, and they certainly should not be criticized for doing so.
Working women have raised honorable families, and they are still doing so.

Thousands of mothers who don't have to work are following a career they consider more important than the welfare of their children, while others spend most of their time maintaining a "place in the social world."

We have been critical of the Post articles, but one good thing accomplished is that they have made it clear that delinquents are not coming from the slums of our cities in anything like the numbers that are pouring out of our so-called "best homes." They should be called "children of prosperity" rather than "juvenile delinquents." A better name would be "children of delinquent parents."

We can't live like our grand-parents who worked on the farm from "sun-up to sun-down." Changes have come with modern conditions. We must discover some way, however, to give children the same advantages we had. And it isn't "easy living" they are in the greatest need of. It is character-building.

NEW YORK (AP)—Selection of Oregon's George Shaw as the No.
1 choice in the professional football draft may surprise the average fan, but the pros think it's a deserved honor—and chuckle heartily at those various post-season All-America teams.

Shaw didn't make many "All" teams last fall when the annual madness came to a head. The quarterback honors in most cases went to Notre Dame's Ralph Gug-lielmi.

But Shaw was the pro No. 1 choice, while end Max Boydston of Oklahoma was picked second and Guglielmi was no better than third.

Before getting around to the "professional AA-America" team—on the basis of the first men picked for each position—let's look at what some of the pros say about Shaw. He was picked by the Baltimore Colts, and President Don Kellest, with a wide smile, asserted:

"We don't have any doubt but what he was the best all-around back in the country. We needed offense because we have a fine defense. We think he'll give us the offense along with Alan Ameche."

Considered "Lucky"
The Colts considered themselves "lucky." They won the bonus draw which has stirred up West Coast and Guglielmi was no better than interest.

ACCORDING TO WIRE DISPATCHES, former Costa Rican President Teodoro Picado, now in Managua, Nicaragua, has stated that his son, Teodoro Jr. (left), 27, is commanding the invading forces.
Young Picado was graduated from West Point in 1951. He is married to an American, the former Susan Ellen Moir. At right is Lawrence D. Lee Jr., 27, of Glendale, Calif., who told reporters in Los Angeles that he was an "unofficial agent" of the invaders.
Mrs. Lee had previously said that her husband and Picado were high school buddies and had "plotted" the "rebellion." The Rebel radio said Picado's troops were "anti-Communist." (International)

Scholarships Reward Fashion Talent 1955 Competition To Close March 1

Two 1955 national winners of Forest City Fashion Scholarships will join these girls at Washington University, St. Louis, to study fashion design. High-school seniors have until March 1 to enter the competition for full tuition scholarships. Previous winners, above, are Nancy Lucas, Jenks, Okla., and Zoe Ann Colombos, Glendale, Cal.
Shown with Dean Kenneth E. Hudson of the University. Entry blanks for the 1955 competition are available from high school principals or Forest City Mfg. Co., St. Louis 3, Mo., donor of the scholarships.

'A-CLOCK' 100 TIMES MORE ACCURATE THAN EARTH

AN ATOMIC CLOCK a hundred times more accurate than the earth's rotation is displayed by its inventor, Columbia University physicist Prof. Charles H. Townes, in New York. The earth's rotation varies about a second every three years, while this device varies that much in only 300 years. It produces vibrations of 24 billion cycles per second directly from radiation of tiny bits of energy from ammonia molecules. The device is called the maser — from microwave amplification by stimulated emission of radiation. (International Soundphoto)

SHORT OF CASH, EARNS WEDDING GOWN THIS WAY

THELMA EISENBERG, 19, models her wedding gown in a Brooklyn, N. Y., store window to get it free —she didn't have the money to buy it. The stint lasted four hours. George Nussbaum, 23, the chap she'll marry March 5, stands by, his coat held up so he won't see her in it before the wedding, true to tradition. (International)

Hospital X-Rays 1,588

Frankfort, Ky. — Kentucky's state tuberculosis hospitals X-rayed 1,588 persons last month, while the population of the six hospitals dropped from from 133 to 72 patients, according to a report today by Joe D. Miller, executive director of the State Tuberculosis Sanatoria Commission.

X-ray treatments were provided 139 persons at the Madisonville hospital; 365 at Hazelwood, near Louisville; 162 at Paris; 256 at Ashland; 92 at London, and 70 at Glasgow. Patient population at each of the hospitals at the end of December:
Madisonville, 99; Louisville, 215; Paris, 107; Ashland, 102; London, 99 and Glasgow, 99.

AN IMPORTANT NOTE TO EVERY FARMER

Dear Friend:
Just a line to extend a personal invitation to you and your family to be our guests on John Deere Day.
We know you'll enjoy the program we're prepared for you—every minute of it. In fact, we think it's the kind of program the entire family will enjoy.
The feature picture, "Miss Hattie," is the kind of story that makes you feel good way down inside. It's a full-length film done in full color and features a cast of well-known Hollywood players. There are many other colorful films, too—both entertaining and educational. You'll like all of them.
You may have already received your free tickets. If not—or if you need more, be sure to pick them up at our First Sabrejet with Nationalist insignia takes off on Formosa.

CHINESE NATIONALISTS on Formosa are being trained in use of the U. S. jet planes. Sabrejets, the plane which carried the brunt of the Korea war, were given to them in November, and Nationalist pilots are being shown how to fly them against the Communist MIGs from the mainland.
